The University of Montana Proclamation

National Student Employment Week

Whereas, across the nation, during the second full week in April, institutions of higher learning will observe “National Student Employment Week”; and

Whereas, student employment offers students career-enhancing experiences, the ability to develop skills relevant in any career, and better preparation for the job market upon graduation; and

Whereas, employers of students contribute to the financial assistance of students and provide them with an opportunity to learn about the workplace; and

Whereas, students working both on and off campus in the Missoula area supplement the labor pool and provide invaluable services to their employers; and

Whereas, The University of Montana joins the offices of Student Employment and Career Services in honoring both employers of students and their student employees who have succeeded in the workforce while continuing to meet the rigors of their academic studies.

Now, therefore, I, Royce C. Engstrom, President of The University of Montana, do hereby proclaim the second full week in April as “National Student Employment Week” and offer best wishes for a most successful observance.

Royce C. Engstrom, President
