Re: HC 270

I am writing in support of the proposed new course, HC 270 Service Learning Seminar.

The Davidson Honors College has hosted this seminar every winter session for the last few years under a special topic designation, and it is our firm intention to continue offering this course every winter session, for the foreseeable future.

This service learning seminar serves a valuable purpose for the students who engage in intensive service learning experiences by developing their knowledge of citizenship, rationale for addressing critical community needs, and critical reflection on the application of community development principles and practices.

The Davidson Honors College is committed to providing adequate resources to sustain this course in future semesters, including classroom space (if needed) and appropriate staffing of the course by qualified faculty or affiliate faculty members.

I fully endorse this course and recommend its approval.

Sincerely yours,

James McKusick
Dean of the Davidson Honors College
Professor of English
