VIII. JUSTIFICATION

Provide enough information that someone without specialized knowledge can make an informed decision.

The faculty members of the Liberal Studies Program have unanimously decided to change the title of the Program to Global Humanities and Religions. This is part of our effort to streamline, simplify and consolidate our offerings. The new name accurately describes what we do, as we teach a number of world religions and also teach courses on the history of ideas in the West, on the intellectual traditions of Europe and America, and also on the literature, culture and thought of a number of Asian cultures. We have been thinking about and discussing this change for several years and have now agreed upon it. "Liberal Studies" is a term not understood by most students and their parents; the new name is much more likely to attract students to the Program and the University.
