Please attach/submit additional documents as needed to fully complete each section of the form.

I. COURSE INFORMATION

Department: African American Studies and History
Course Title: South Africa: The Rise and Fall of Apartheid
Course Number: AAST/HSTR 291

Type of Request: New Course offered: Fall, Spring, Intermittent

*If course does not exist in the catalog, an e-curriculum form is also required.

JUSTIFICATION FOR COURSE LEVEL
Normally general education courses do not have more than one pre-requisite, are at least 3 credits, and numbered in the 100-300 levels. If the course does not meet these conditions, please provide an explanation. If the course is offered at the 400-level, please explain how it is foundational within the requested perspective.

This course is taught as an introductory course and has no pre-requisites. It is taught at the 200 level and students take it for 3 credits. This is a course that is foundational and offers a broad look at the history of South Africa over several centuries.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION (FOR OCHE DATABASE):
In which MUS Core Category, does this course fit? Social Science/History
Does the course include content regarding cultural heritage of American Indians? No

II. ENDORSEMENT / APPROVALS

* Instructor: Gillian Glaes
  Phone / Email: 406-546-8966/gillian.glaes@msou.montana.edu
Program Chair: Tobin Miller Shearer
Dean: Jenny McNulty

*Form must be completed by the instructor who will be teaching the course. If the instructor of the course changes before the next review, the new instructor must be provided with a copy of the form prior to teaching the course.

III. DESCRIPTION AND PURPOSE

General Education courses must be introductory and foundational within the offering department or within the General Education Group. They must emphasize breadth, context, and connectedness; and relate course content to students’ future lives: See Preamble

This course is an introduction class on the history of South Africa from the early modern settlement of the Dutch to the present day. Throughout the course, we discuss key themes, such as the rise and impact of colonialism, the economic impact of industries such as mining, the rise of segregation and apartheid, the role of racism, the impact of state violence, and the end of apartheid and the post-apartheid period. The class provides a broad overview of the history of South Africa with an eye toward helping students understand the contemporary situation in South Africa. The course covers approximately 5 centuries of South African and Sub-Saharan African history, including the colonial and post-colonial periods.
This course provides students with an opportunity to meet their general education “Historical and Cultural” requirement through a class that covers the modern period. Another course with this designation in our curriculum, AAS/HSTR 208, “Discovering Africa,” is a course that covers ancient African history through the late nineteenth century. But it does not cover any twentieth century developments. As the twentieth century is such a critical period for the modern history of Africa and South Africa, endorsing AAS/HSTR 291 for the “Historical and Cultural” general education requirement will open up this course for students who might be more interested in the modern time period and give students an opportunity to be exposed to modern, contemporary, and post-colonial African and South African history. The course is still broadly conceived, as is AAS/HSTR 208, but it continues into the twentieth century and finishes in the contemporary, post-apartheid period. This gives students an opportunity to think about present-day issues, such as the impact of the HIV/AIDS crisis and the shift to democracy, which also allows them to contemplate the future and various possibilities for South Africa, in line with the general education requirements for the “Historical and Cultural” designation. Like AAS/HSTR 208: Discovering Africa, AAS/HSTR 291 is offered as an online class. Endorsing it for the “Historical/Cultural” general education requirement will expand the online general education offerings, which will assist students in completing their degrees across many different majors and colleges on campus.

IV. CRITERIA
BRIEFLY EXPLAIN HOW THIS COURSE MEETS THE CRITERIA FOR THE GROUP.

The primary purpose of courses in this perspective is to explore the historical contexts and narratives of human behavior, ideas, institutions, and societies through an analysis of their patterns of development or differentiation in the past. These courses are wide-ranging in chronological, geographical, or topical focus. They introduce students to methods of inquiry that enable them to understand and evaluate the causes and significance of events, texts, or artifacts.

This course meets the criteria for this group by looking at historical patterns such as the development of colonialism in South Africa and its relationship to racism and discriminatory practices in urban areas, the mining industry, and rural areas. We look at how colonialism in South Africa followed patterns found in colonialism internationally and how it differed. We also evaluate the rise of apartheid following the establishment of segregation and its connections to racialized and racial thinking in other parts of the world. This course covers several centuries of history, from the arrival of the Dutch in the early modern era to the present, while also covering a wide variety of topics, from the impact of Dutch and British colonialism to the impact of global capitalism and, for example, the mining industry, to the rise and fall of apartheid. Throughout the class, we also look at human behaviors, such as resistance to colonialism and apartheid through groups such as the African National Congress as well as those who upheld and supported apartheid and racial discrimination in South Africa. We look at the experience of women under apartheid as well as violence enacted by the state against a large proportion of its citizenry.

V. STUDENT LEARNING GOALS
BRIEFLY EXPLAIN HOW THIS COURSE WILL MEET THE APPLICABLE LEARNING GOALS.

1. Critically analyze and evaluate primary sources – such as texts, pictorial evidence, oral histories, music, and artifacts- within their respective historical contexts.
Throughout the course, students analyze primary and secondary sources related to a variety of developments within South African history. For example, they read the memoir To My Children's Memoir by Sindile Magona. They also read primary sources provided through the textbook entitled South Africa: The Rise and Fall of Apartheid, including "Dan Montsisi Testifies as to the Origins of the Soweto Uprising, 1976." There are also primary sources and other resources made available for students to analyze on Moodle, including the Google Cultural Institute's virtual tour of Robben Island, where Nelson Mandela was held for most of his incarceration.

2. Synthesize ideas and information in order to understand the problems, causes, and consequences of historical developments and events.

Students explore the origins of European colonialism in South Africa through a discussion of Dutch settlement. We then discuss how Dutch settlement and interactions with the local population fostered racism and racial hierarchies, which, combined with the arrival of the British, helped shape the rise of segregation and, eventually, apartheid. The course also analyzes the rise, trajectory and impact of, and fall of apartheid, looking at its significance and consequences for South Africa, Sub-Saharan Africa, and beyond.

VI. ASSESSMENT

A. HOW ARE THE LEARNING GOALS FOR THE GENERAL EDUCATION GROUP MEASURED?

Describe how you will determine that students have met each of the General Education Learning Goals. This should include specific examples of assignments, rubrics or test questions that directly measure the General Education learning goals. (See Example)

Please attach or provide a web link to relevant assessment materials.

1. Synthesize ideas and information with a view to understanding the causes and consequences of historical developments and events.

Students are required to write three essays that address key aspects of South African history, from the colonial era to the pre-apartheid, apartheid, and post-apartheid eras. They look carefully at the causes and consequences of colonialism as well as the causes and consequences of apartheid and accompanying events, such as the Soweto Massacre and the release of Nelson Mandela from prison.

2. Evaluate texts or artifacts within their historical and/or cultural contexts.

Through discussion forum posts, essays, and the final project, students engage with many different texts and artifacts, from audio recordings of Nelson Mandela's speech at his trial to a Google Cultural Institute interactive tour of Robben Island, where he was held for most of his incarceration. Students are encouraged to read, discuss, and analyze primary and secondary sources from throughout the class.

3. Analyze human behavior, ideas, and institutions within their respective historical and/or cultural contexts.

Students have the opportunity through essays and discussion forum posts to understand the historical and cultural context of events that happened in South Africa and Sub-Saharan Africa from the early colonial era to the present. Students are encouraged to explore African history through the lens of South African history and to examine various ideas and institutions throughout the country's and the region's important history. In terms of human behavior, we look for instance at those who supported apartheid, those who opposed it, and the reasons for their actions.

General Education Assessment Report (Items B-D) If this information is not yet available, Items VI. B- D must be completed within one year of this course review (re-submit the entire form with these sections completed).

B. ACHIEVEMENT TARGETS

Describe the desirable level of performance for your students, and the percentage of students you expected to achieve this: From my perspective, a desirable level of achievement for my students is for each one to pass the class and earn a grade of C or higher. I believe that each of my students is capable of meeting this goal.
C. ASSESSMENT FINDINGS

What were the results/findings, and what is your interpretation/analysis of the data? (Please be detailed, using specific numbers/percentages when possible. Qualitative discussion of themes provided in student feedback may also be reported. Be sure to use data that connects to the specific Learning Goals (do not rely on overall course grades). The most useful data indicates where students’ performance was stronger and where it was weaker. Feel free to attach charts/tables if desired.)

In both the winter session 2016 course and the spring 2017 course, all but a few students passed the course each time it was offered. The work done in both classes ranged from good to excellent and there was strong improvement over the course of both terms in terms of writing and analysis, both in the assigned essay and on the assigned forums. For the final project, students had the option in the spring class to make a documentary film. One student, a journalism student, made an outstanding documentary on post-apartheid South Africa and the “born free” generation. Student evaluations of the course have been strong. Student responses to evaluation surveys ranged from “fair” to “good” to “very good” to “excellent” during both terms. Comments include:

- “Dr. Glaes is an excellent instructor. She always challenges students to go above and beyond!”
- “More work than expected for winter session, very difficult if you have mutliple winter sesion courses.”
- “The course was engaging and provided students with the tools to have intellectual discussions. The professor was very responsive and provided in-depth feedback.”
- “Dr. Glaes is an amazing professor and person. The reading in the class was VERY heavy, but worth it. I don’t think I would have had such a hard time keeping up if I hadn’t have taken 18 credits this semester. Everything was informative and interesting and Dr. Glaes is so enthusiastic. My favorite professor! Keep it up!”

D. ASSESSMENT FEEDBACK

Given your students’ performance the last time the course was offered, how will you modify the course to enhance learning? You can also address how the course could be improved, and what changes in the course content or pedagogy you plan to make, based upon on the findings. Please include a timeframe for the changes.

As an instructor, I work to improve each class each time that I teach it. One challenge that I’ve had over the course of my career is in figuring out how much reading is appropriate. I continue to review the reading assignments each semester to try to figure out what works and what doesn’t. In this course, I assigned a memoir, To My Children’s Children. Because it was an online class, though, it was difficult to tell whether students read and engaged with this book. They had the options of answering questions about it on the discussion forum, but few did. I would like to figure out a way to assign a text such as this and have a discussion through the Moodle forums so that students have the chance to engage with this kind of source. Additionally, I would like to encourage my students to embrace different sorts of projects, especially at the end of the semester. I have offered an option for their third major assignment for students to make a documentary, but few have. It would be terrific to figure out how to provide them with the tools that they need to complete an alternative type of assignment. I would also like to figure out how to make the discussions more dynamic on Moodle, perhaps by having students lead the discussion each week by posting questions and facilitating or perhaps by having a more focused discussion. Finally, I would like to record weekly videos for the students to provide an overview of the material. I hope to be able to do that the next time that I have the opportunity to teach this class.

VII. SYLLABUS AND SUBMISSION

Please submit syllabus in a separate file with the completed and signed form to the Faculty Senate Office, UH 221, faculty senate@msu.msu.edu. The learning goals for the Historical and Cultural Studies Group must be included on the syllabus. An electronic copy of the original signed form is acceptable.
This is a UM Online course offered through Moodle.

Methods of communicating with students:
Moodle, email, web conferences, in-person meetings when applicable, and phone

TWITTER: A Twitter hashtag is available: #aas291s. You can use it, for example, to Tweet out relevant and class-appropriate news stories about topics related to South African and African history and current events. See the Twitter feed under “course tools” on the course Moodle page. Remember to maintain a professional demeanor on Twitter as we’ll all be able to see what you Tweet using this hashtag.
Course overview:

Welcome to AAST 291: South Africa: The Rise and Fall of Apartheid. This is an online course in African-American Studies that looks at the history of South Africa from the early modern era to the present.

In this class, we will explore several key themes and developments, including:

- South African societies and European exploration and settlement in the early modern era
- South Africa as a British colony and the Boer War
- the rise of segregation
- the emergence of the apartheid state
- the impact of apartheid
- the fight against apartheid in and beyond South Africa
- Nelson Mandela and the ANC’s struggle against apartheid
- the fall of apartheid
- the search for truth and reconciliation
- South Africa after apartheid & South Africa today

Course objectives and learning outcomes:

This online course will assist you in understanding:

- the role of exploration, settlement, and colonialism in the rise of segregation and apartheid
- the historical origins of racism in South Africa
- the rise of apartheid
- the course of policies of apartheid
- the black African response to apartheid
- the dismantling and end of apartheid
- the transition to democracy in South Africa
- the journey to truth and reconciliation
- triumphs and challenges in post-apartheid South Africa

This course will also assist you in:

1. Critically analyzing and evaluating primary sources – such as texts, pictorial evidence, oral histories, music, and artifacts- within their respective historical contexts.
2. Synthesizing ideas and information in order to understand the problems, causes, and consequences of historical developments and events.
Online Learning/Learning Online:
You might be someone who has taken many online courses or this might be your first online class. Regardless of your background in online learning, I am excited that you are taking AAST 291. That said, while this is an online course, it will not necessarily be an “easy” class. It should challenge you intellectually and academically, just as a traditional class would.

Please be aware that you are responsible for reading and understanding the course syllabus and knowing the due dates for all assignments. Please keep in mind that changes to the syllabus can occur. Remember to look for announcements concerning the class on the course Moodle page and through the news forum. Make sure that you check your UM student email account regularly for announcements, notices, etc.

To stay current with the class, I expect you to log onto the course Moodle page several times per week to access readings, videos, discussion forums, assignments, and other information. This will enable you to remain engaged in the course materials and corresponding forums and assignments each week and throughout the semester. Remember to communicate regularly with me as the instructor, especially if you are experiencing challenges with the course material or with the technology that we are using (Moodle and various features in Moodle). Technology should assist you in completing and succeeding in this course — it should not be a barrier, nor should it be used as an excuse for incomplete coursework.

Expectations for student conduct: “netiquette” in an online class
There are rules and etiquette that apply to the online realm, just as there are in the rest of society. As such, it is important for you to maintain a friendly, open, and professional demeanor. The other students in the course and I are your colleagues and will serve as tremendous resources for you as we work through the course material together. To nurture your rapport with others in the class, remember to maintain a collegial and a professional demeanor throughout the semester. Here is a link to UM’s Student Conduct Code — please see especially the section on “General Misconduct.”

The following are good practices and expectations for student conduct in this online class. To quote onlinecollege.net: “Like all professional endeavors, successful performance in an online course depends on following certain standardized rules to achieve clear communication.”

Please follow the Student Conduct Code and these rules and expectations throughout the semester:

- Participate frequently. Studies show that the more students participate in an online class, the better they do. Put your ideas out there so that others may read them, understand them, and respond to them.
- Complete your work on time and make sure that you’re staying current with the syllabus each week.
- Conduct yourself on Moodle and in this online class as you would in real life. Respect others and remember that your fellow students are people. Be ethical, punctual, courteous, professional, compassionate, intellectually engaged, respectful, and enthusiastic.
• Remember that outside of a conference call, you cannot see facial expressions, gestures, and other mannerisms that are important in communication while on Moodle. Tread lightly—avoid all caps, exclamation points, and/or purposely provoking your fellow students (or the instructor). If you would not say it in person, please do not say it on Moodle, via email, or through other means of online, electronic communication.
• Represent yourself well online: make sure that your writing is grammatically correct and supported by sources offered through the class. Use clear, concise, academic, and professional language. Test for clarity—your paragraph might be clear to you, but it might not necessarily be clear to others. Stay focused on the topic at hand.
• Be collaborative and show a willingness to work with others. To quote onlinecollege.net: “To be truly collaborative, it is important to share information, reveal tips you may have discovered, and respect the ideas of others.”

Failure to abide by UM’s Student Conduct Code and these rules of “Netiquette” will result in the appropriate penalties.

For further resources on online etiquette, which inspired the above list, see the following links:

Academic honesty & academic integrity:
Issues with academic integrity, plagiarism, and/or cheating will be addressed according to the University of Montana-Missoula’s Student Conduct Code and, specifically, its policies regarding academic misconduct.

The Academic Misconduct policy within the Student Conduct Code defines misconduct as plagiarism, misconduct during an academic exercise, unauthorized possession or examination of course material, tampering with course materials, submitting false information, submitting work previously presented in another course, improperly influencing conduct, submitting or arranging substitution for a student during an examination or other academic exercise, facilitating academic misconduct, or altering academic documentation (transcripts, etc.).

I assume that you have read and understand these policies. I also assume that you will abide by them and conduct yourself in an ethical manner throughout the semester. Instances of academic misconduct will be dealt with swiftly and in accordance with UM’s policies. If you have any questions, please contact me.

Accessibility and accommodations:
The course materials, interactions, and policies are intended to accommodate all students. The University of Montana-Missoula assures equal access to instruction by supporting collaboration between students with disabilities, instructors, and Disability Services for Students. If you have a disability that requires an accommodation, please contact me during the first week of the semester so that proper accommodations can be provided. For further information or if you feel that you have a disability for which you need accommodation, please contact:

Required books:
(available for purchase at and through The Bookstore at UM)

- Nancy L. Clark and William H. Worger, South Africa: The Rise and Fall of Apartheid (3rd edition)
- Sindiwe Magona, To My Children’s Children

(all other course materials will be available through the course Moodle page)

Assignments:
NOTE: Feedback on all assignments will be available through the Joule Grader on Moodle.

Moodle tutorial: 5% (due Monday, January 30)
Please complete the Moodle tutorial available on the course Moodle page under week 1 and under assignments by Monday, January 30 by 9:00 a.m. This will familiarize you with Moodle and online learning on Moodle and specifically with the “Snap” layout that we’re using. If you have used Moodle before, please use this as a refresher course – this is a required assignment and will count toward your final grade in the course.
Weekly discussion forum posts:

The weekly discussion forums/threads are intended to give you the opportunity to discuss the assigned weekly course material, including readings and videos, with your fellow students. Each week, we will focus on the readings and online resources in the forum posts. In your forum posts and your responses to other students, you will draw on the course materials and discuss the readings and other materials specifically in your posts. There will be specific directions under each week’s forums that you will follow. Each forum post should be at least a paragraph in length (at least 5-7 sentences) with evidence and examples drawn from the course materials to support your analysis. Remember to write with an academic tone and with the goal of positively and professionally engaging with your fellow students in an academic discussion.

The weekly discussion forums will open by Monday morning. Please complete your initial post by Thursday at 11:59 p.m. MST and the rest of the posts, including replies to other students, by the following Monday morning at 9:00 a.m. You will be evaluated in part on your promptness in posting to the forums, including making your initial post by Thursday. Please follow the specific instructions for each week’s discussion forum.

During the weeks that papers are due, you will be required to post an abstract of your paper that week and respond to another student’s abstract so that students can see what others are working on. Paper due dates are listed below under “essays.” When you post your abstract, you are welcome to include illustrations and other visual resources with your summary of your paper, including your argument, approach, and sources. You are also welcome to post a full version of your paper if you would like to.

Late forum posts will be docked points in the grading process. Please see below for specific details.

Assessment of the weekly forums:

Your forum posts will be graded each week on the following 20-point grading scale:

18-20: A

EXCEPTIONAL & EXCEEDS REQUIREMENTS SET FORTH: The student’s forum posts express critical thinking about the assigned readings for the week. The forum posts directly reference many of the readings and online course materials, bringing them together in a thoughtful, thorough, and exceptional manner. Forum posts further the discussion. The student has met and/or exceeded the required number of forum posts for that week, which often include pictures and additional resources. All forum posts are well-written using complete sentences and correct spelling and grammar. All sources are cited for each post using parenthetical citations. The forum posts are submitted on time.

16-17: B

ABOVE AVERAGE & MEETS REQUIREMENTS SET FORTH: The student’s forum posts express critical thinking about the assigned readings for the week with direct references to some of the readings and other course materials, bringing the together in an above average manner. The student has met the required number of forum posts for that week. All forum posts are written in an above-average way in complete sentences and include correct spelling and grammar. Most forum posts are cited using parenthetical citations. The forum posts are submitted on time.

14-15: C

AVERAGE: MEETS REQUIREMENTS SET FORTH: The student's forum posts express critical thinking about topics from the week and adequately connects course concepts, but with few reference to the assigned readings and other course materials. The student meets the number of forum posts required for this week. Most forum posts are written in complete sentences with proper grammar and spelling. Some forum posts are cited using parenthetical citations. The forum posts are submitted on time or one day late.

12-13: D

BELOW AVERAGE: DOES NOT MEET REQUIREMENTS SET FORTH: The student's forum posts contain speculative comments without support from the content of the course (e.g., assigned readings, lectures, etc.) or comments are not relevant to the week's assigned materials. The minimum number of forum posts was not met. Forum posts are not properly written in terms of paragraphing, sentence structure, and/or grammar and spelling. Sources are not cited. The forum posts are submitted one or two days late.

0-11: F

DOES NOT MEET THE CRITERIA SET FORTH: The forum posts have no bearing on the course, are without relevance to that week's topic, are completed after the due date(s), are poorly written, do not meet the criteria set forth, or are not completed for that week. The forum posts are not cited. Or, the forum posts were submitted more than 3 days late.

Essays/Assignments

Essay 1:

20% (due to Moodle Monday, February 27 by 9 a.m.)
Submit your paper under “assignments” and your abstract/summary of the paper to the week 5 forum.

Essay 2:

20% (due to Moodle Monday, April 3 by 9 a.m.)
Submit your paper under “assignments” and your abstract/summary of the paper to the week 10 forum.

Essay 3/Final Project:

25% (due to Moodle Friday, May 12 by 5 p.m.) (finals week)
Submit your paper or project under “assignments” and your abstract/summary of the paper or project to the week 15 forum.

Your essays will be graded on the following criteria:

- The student demonstrates an awareness of context, audience and purpose (15%)
• The student demonstrates critical and creative thinking (30%)
• The student develops ideas, claims, and arguments with specific information and detail (25%)
• The student finds, evaluates, integrates, and correctly cites information from appropriate primary and secondary sources (10%)
• The student creates an effective organizational structure (10%)
• The student creates clear, fluent, and correct prose. In other words, the paper is well-written and free of errors (10%)

CITATIONS:
• Please cite your sources using the Turabian/Chicago style citation method (endnotes).
• The Mansfield Library has resources on Chicago-style citations.
• UM’s writing center is a great resource when writing historical essays. So is Purdue University’s Online Writing Lab.
• See other resources for writing historical essays under the “resources” tab on the course Moodle page.

LATE POLICY:

• Late papers/assignments will be docked at a letter grade per day. Please plan accordingly.

NOTE: I will be using methods to check your essays and projects for originality. Please make sure that your content is original and that all sources are cited using the Chicago/Turabian style citation method (endnotes). Resources to help you with this citation format are available above and on Moodle.

Grade scale:
Based on your performance in this course, you will be evaluated on the following grade scale:

A  94-100
A- 90-93
B+ 87-89
B  84-86
B- 80-83
C+ 77-79
C  74-76
C- 70-73
D+ 67-69
D  64-66
D- 60-63
F  59 and below

For students taking the course “credit/no credit”:
From the UM catalogue: “Courses taken to satisfy General Education Requirements must be taken for traditional letter grade. Courses required for the student’s major or minor must be taken for traditional letter grade, except at the discretion of the department concerned.”
A grade of CR is assigned for work deserving credit (A through D-) and a grade of NCR is assigned for work of failing quality (F). CR and NCR grades do not affect grade point averages. The grades of CR and NCR are not defined in terms of their relationship to traditional grades for graduate course work.

Election of the credit/no credit option must be indicated at registration time or within the first 15 class days on CyberBear. Between the 16th day and the last day of instruction before finals week, a student may request a change from credit/no credit enrollment to an enrollment under the A-F grade system, or the reverse, by means of a Course Add/Change Form; note that not all such requests are approved.”

To pass this class on the credit/no credit grade scale at UM, you need a “D” average (a minimum of a 60% overall). From my perspective, that means that you need to pass all elements of the class – forums, essays, and other assignments. Please contact me if you have any questions.
