Organization Codes

- The organization code is used to identify units, departments, schools, colleges of an institution. It is set up to match the organizational hierarchy of the institution and should define lines of fiscal responsibility. An institution may have up to eight levels of organization codes, depending on their needs.
- The number structure does have the same scheme as the fund types. The first digit of the code reflects the campus or reporting unit depending on the chart code. The level one code reflects the campus or business unit.
- Within the data warehouse a drill-down menu exists to view the various levels of orgs within the University of Montana Chart.
