BUDGET INCREASE REQUEST

790#: _____ Last Name, First Name _____ BIRDxx 2324

On a case-by-case basis, we can consider increasing your cost of attendance (budget) which is based on an average cost for most students. Since individual budgets can vary, the Department of Education allows students to request budget increases with documentation. Requests without adequate documentation will be denied. If your budget increase request is approved, it is important to know that the changes usually only create an opportunity for students/parents to borrow more in loans. It is rare for an increase to create room for grants, campus-based aid, and/or scholarships; it never changes the Pell Grant amount.

We also want to caution student/parent(s) to carefully consider limiting how much they borrow in loans. Loans are required to be repaid. The budget is categorized into tuition and fees, housing and food, books, supplies, transportation, and miscellaneous (personal). Increases to the budget can also consider costs associated with dependent care (child or elder care and private school tuition), study abroad costs, costs related to a disability, and a personal computer. Therefore, certain 'reasonable' costs in these areas that exceed the cost of attendance can be considered. Reasonable expenses could include but are not limited to student housing costs, transportation costs, student loan fees, one-time professional licensure costs, student's medical/dental not covered by insurance, insurance premiums (student), etc. The budget is only those costs that are directly related to the student's education during the time of enrollment. In overaward (over budget) situations, we will use known actual costs to offset overawards. Housing requests will only be considered for the student's portion of the expense. We cannot increase your housing allowance if you live with your parent(s). Requests can take up to six weeks.
