

M.A. Degree in History, Graduate Student Handbook, 2026-2027The University of Montana, Department of History

Department Chair, Jeff Wiltse
Director of Graduate Studies (DGS), Anya Jabour

Students in the History MA Program may pursue multiple pathways to earn their degree:

1. Thesis option: 30 credits of approved coursework, with submission and defense of a thesis proposal and a thesis.
2. Professional Paper option: 36 credits of approved coursework, with submission and defense of a professional paper.
3. Professional Paper & Public History Portfolio option: 30 credits of approved coursework, with submission and defense of a professional paper, and submission of an in-house public history portfolio.
4. In-House Portfolio option for PhD students: 36 credits of approved coursework and submission and approval of a portfolio of at least two scholarly research papers completed in UM History graduate courses.

Each student enters the program with a designated advisor, who oversees the student's course of study in consultation with the department's Graduate Committee.

HISTORY DEPARTMENT REQUIREMENTS

In addition to the regulations specified by the Graduate School, MA students in history must complete the Department's course credit, thesis and professional paper, and other requirements, outlined in the History M.A. section of the University of Montana catalog.

Requirements of note:

- M.A. students must maintain a continuous GPA of 3.3 or higher, and must complete all required coursework with a cumulative GPA of 3.3 or higher prior to defending a thesis or professional paper. (N.B.: this is above the Graduate School requisite of 3.0).
- M.A. students must earn a B-plus or higher in a HSTA 594 or HSTR 594, our graduate research seminar, in their first year in the program.

- M.A. students must earn a B or higher in a minimum of four 500-level history readings seminars, including at least two courses in the student's major field (US, Europe, or the World), and at least one course in one of the other two areas.
- M.A. students must be actively engaged in conceptualizing, researching, and writing an original thesis or professional paper, and/or creating a public history portfolio, throughout their enrollment in the program. In addition to Graduate School requirements and deadlines, satisfactory progress toward completion of these degree requirements will be defined and evaluated by the student's advisor and approved by the Graduate Committee.
- M.A. students are expected to act professionally—meeting deadlines and responsibilities, responding to emails from advisors and professors, participating in workshops, conferences, and department events, and acting respectfully toward peers, staff, professors, and undergraduate students.
- M.A. students must adhere to the University of Montana Student Conduct Code, including provisions for academic honesty.
- M.A. students on Teaching Assistant (T.A.) or Research Assistant (R.A.) contracts are expected to fulfill all the responsibilities and tasks given to them by their supervising instructor, up to 19 hours per week, in a timely, proficient, and professional manner.

Exceptions to any requirements must be allowable under University and Graduate School policies, and must be approved by the student's advisor and the Graduate Committee.

STUDENT PROGRESS REVIEW

The Graduate Committee regularly monitors each student's academic performance, progress toward the degree, and, when applicable, fulfillment of teaching assistant (TA), research assistant (RA), or other instructional responsibilities. The committee determines each student's standing in the program, makes decisions regarding the renewal of fellowships and assistantships, and awards departmental scholarships. These evaluations take place through both a limited mid-year progress review and a more comprehensive end-of-year review, described below.

Mid-Year Review:

At the end of the fall semester, the Director of Graduate Studies (DGS) collects brief feedback from instructors of History graduate courses and from TA supervisors, highlighting both exceptional performance and areas of concern. The Graduate Committee reviews this input and contacts students and advisors as needed.

Annual Progress Review:

At the end of the spring semester, each student must submit a written Progress Report to their advisor by a deadline set by the DGS. Advisors then add comments and forward the reports to the Graduate Committee. Students may also be asked to submit additional materials, such as research papers. Failure to submit the report on time may jeopardize a student's standing in the program and their eligibility for funding.

After reviewing the reports—along with feedback from course instructors and assistantship supervisors—the Graduate Committee evaluates each student’s overall standing using the following categories:

- Good Standing
- Good Standing with Renewal of Fellowship or Teaching Assistantship (if applicable)
- Probationary Status
- Non-Renewal of Fellowship or Teaching Assistantship (if applicable)
- Suspension from the Program

The DGS notifies students of their standing in the program, and if any further action is required. To remain in Good Standing, UM History MA students must meet all program requirements in a timely manner. If these requirements are not met, and no exception has been approved for extenuating circumstances, the DGS may recommend probation or suspension to the Graduate School. Both actions are recorded on the student’s official transcript. In cases of probation, the DGS and the student’s advisor will provide a written plan specifying the steps and deadlines required to return to Good Standing. See Graduate School Policies B8.000 – Academic Probation and Suspension for more details.

OTHER HISTORY DEPARTMENT EXPECTATIONS & OPPORTUNITIES FOR M.A. STUDENTS

- We expect our graduate students to present work at conferences when appropriate and feasible, as determined in consultation with your advisor. Local and regional opportunities to present your work include:
 - UM History Department Lockridge Workshop
 - UM Graduate Conference \(GradCon\)
 - Phi Alpha Theta NW Regional Conference
 - Montana History Conference, Montana Historical Society
 - Western History Association \(WHA\) Conference
 - National Council on Public History \(NCPH\)
 - American Historical Association-Pacific Coast Branch
- We expect our graduate students to contribute to the intellectual and pedagogic life of the History Department, which includes regular participation in the Lockridge Workshop.
- We expect our graduate students to place a high priority on their coursework, research and writing, and professional development. Graduate students with TAs or fellowships from us should not undertake work outside the History Department during the regular semester, without the approval of their advisor and the Graduate Committee.
- Graduate students who do not have funding from us are strongly encouraged to discuss external work and other responsibilities with their advisors and the DGS. Our goal is for you to succeed in our program, and we want to help you put in place conditions for your success.

OTHER SELECT INFORMATION

- Graduate Assistantship contracts are covered under the University of Montana Graduate Employee Union collective bargaining agreement. The Graduate School has a continuous registration policy requiring students to register for at least 3 credits each fall and spring semester until they graduate. In a student's last semester, if they do not need the credits to graduate, they may petition the Graduate Dean to take fewer than 3 credits, but no less than 1 credit. See Graduate School Policies, section B3.000.
- For some students, particularly if you plan to apply to continue your doctoral degree here, it might make sense to try to secure in-state residency, which substantially reduces tuition costs. It can be a bit tricky because registering for more than 6 credits of coursework per semester will work against you. For information, see UM Graduate School Residency Qualifications.

ADDITIONAL OPPORTUNITIES & RESOURCES

- UM History Public History Certificate for Graduate Students
- UM History Department Internship Program
- Confluence: UM Graduate Students “Telling Our Story” (podcast + videos). This is the Graduate School’s media page, which hosts a podcast and videos about graduate student work at UM. They encourage you to listen and watch to learn more about what others are doing around campus, community, and region.

- UM Curry Health Center
- Graduate School Student Health and Wellbeing Resources
- The UM Writing and Public Speaking Center offers one-on-one appointments for students at every juncture in the writing process. They have an ongoing Workshop Series, writing groups, and many other resources for graduate students.
- UM Student Financial Services offers valuable information on loans, grants, scholarships, and more!
- Most graduate students find their own housing using the many property management companies in town, but some choose to take advantage of UM Housing and Off-Campus Student Apartments.
- The UM Humanities and Sciences Career Planning Center can help you with all aspects of career readiness, from helping you find internships and jobs to helping you craft your resume and application, prepare for interviews, and much more.
- The UM Experiential Learning and Career Success office is a good resource for graduate students who are working on their CVs, resumes, and exploring career options. Though much of their structured programming is geared to undergraduates, their individual counseling on specific aspects of job search are very useful for graduate students at any stage.
- TAs and RAs are eligible to access UM's subscription to LinkedIn Learning, a large repository of videos and short courses on a wide range of topics. Students can login with their NetID (Single-Sign-On) and develop some specialized skills that will augment their professional development and career success.

- For students who are not on contracts, LinkedIn Learning is available for a trial subscription, which is free for a month.

University of Montana Non-Discrimination and Title IX Statement

The University of Montana is committed to providing a learning and working environment that promotes respect, dignity, and equity for all individuals. In accordance with federal and state law, the University does not discriminate—and prohibits discrimination—on the basis of race, religion, color, national or ethnic origin, ancestry, creed, sex (including pregnancy, childbirth, lactation or related medical conditions), gender, (including gender identity, gender expression, and gender transition), sexual orientation, physical or mental disability (including having a history of a disability or being regarded as having a disability), marital or family status, genetic characteristics or information, age, veteran or military status, political ideas, or any other legally protected classification in its educational programs and activities, including admission and employment.

In accordance with Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972 and its implementing regulations, the University of Montana does not discriminate on the basis of sex in any education program or activity that it operates. This requirement extends to admission and employment. Inquiries about the application of Title IX may be referred to the University's Title IX Coordinator.

The University of Montana has designated a Title IX Coordinator and Director of Equal Opportunity to coordinate its compliance with Title IX and other non-discrimination laws and policies. Their contact information is:
