Mansfield Center Photo and Print Journalism Internship

The Maureen and Mike Mansfield Center, the Rocky Mountain West’s premier center for Asia relations and ethics in public affairs, is looking for a motivated and hardworking intern to document the Center’s U.S. Department of State sponsored exchange programs and other major delegations, programs, and events. Interns will work closely with Mansfield Center staff to create quality articles and reports on multiple Mansfield Center programs and initiatives.

Job Duties and Responsibilities:

- Document the Mansfield Center’s Civil Society Development Professional Fellows program in October to create a photo essay recording the program and articles exploring various program activities and achievements suitable for sharing with the U.S. Department of State, on-line, in newsletters and quarterly reports, and with other media outlets.
- Cover Mansfield Center programs, including economic and trade delegations, conferences, and other events to create professional articles on these events suitable for sharing with participants, donors, the community, and other media outlets.
- Work with the Mansfield Center Director and communications staff to compile a quarterly newsletter for Mansfield Center stakeholders and community members.

Qualifications:

- Excellent communication and writing skills
- Well-developed research and interview skills
- Experience with taking high-quality, journalistic photos and writing high-quality, journalistic articles
- Ability to work independently

Compensation:

This is an unpaid or work-study internship for 5-15 hours a week that offers extensive experience. Academic credit is available if desired. The Mansfield Center is willing to work with interns to tailor the internship to meet their academic needs.

Dates of Internship:
