Over the next several months, faculty will collaborate with leadership to determine the precise shape of the two new colleges and the Franke College of Forestry and Conservation. This would include the naming of the colleges and schools.

A college containing
- School of Global and Policy Studies
- School of Social Transformation
- School of Thought, Expression and Experience
- School of Psychology

A college containing
- School of Life Sciences
- School of Physical, Computational and Mathematical Sciences

Franke College of Forestry and Conservation
- School of Sustainability
- School of Earth System Science
- School of Natural Resource Management

Structurally, the other colleges will remain as they are for now.
- College of the Arts and Media
- College of Business
- Phyllis J. Washington College of Education
- College of Health
- Alexander Blewett III School of Law
- Missoula College
- Davidson Honors College
- Franke Global Leadership Initiative
- Maureen and Mike Mansfield Library
- Bitterroot College

In a subsequent phase of development, we will create initiatives, driven by faculty and housed in the Provost’s Office, to encourage and support curricular innovation, collaboration across departments and colleges, and the creation of new interdisciplinary programs.